

Be 19+ at the beginning of the academic year

Lived within the EU for the last 3 years

Live in London and earn less than the London Living Wage

Britain's over-64 population is predicted to increase from 9.5 million to 15 million by 2040. As the population ages, more people will require end-of-life care as they deal with major chronic illnesses. A thorough understanding of pain management, support, and quality of life is crucial for all carers as the issues faced and the help required by those who are nearing the end of their lives are diverse.

Benefits

- Obtain a nationally recognised Level 2 qualification
- Demonstrate to potential employers that you are competent
- Advance your professional and personal development
- Ensure you can manage pain and discomfort
- Ensure you comprehend care planning in end-of-life care
- Learn whenever it is convenient for you, without having to go to college.

What you will learn

- Recognise How to Provide End-of-Life Care
- · Planning for Care at the End of Life
- Recognise How to Help People Manage Pain and Discomfort
- · Dementia and Care at End of Life
- Recognising the Care Provider's Role During Death
- Recognise Grief and Loss in End-of-Life Care